Overview

Dermatology Clinical Studies at Wake Forest School of Medicine has been conducting clinical trials since the early 1990s with over 300 clinical trials being conducted. Our mission is to provide the highest quality research data to improve medical care for patients with skin diseases.

In 2009, The Department of Dermatology at Wake Forest Baptist Health was named a Clinical Center of Excellence in Dermatology by Medical Economics magazine, which referred to the department as one of the finest in the country. Many of our board certified dermatologists are key opinion leaders in dermatology.

Wake Forest has established an integrated and adaptable research infrastructure to provide superior, cost-effective and easily accessible resources to support research. We have a patient population that extends to 5 states (VA, WV, TN, SC and NC) with over 11 million people. The Institutional Review Board (IRB) meets daily Monday-Thursday with an average time of 16 days for initial full board review and approval. The IRB is accredited by the Association for the Accreditation of Human Research Protection Programs. The average negotiation time for CDAs is 10 days and the average negotiation time for CTAs is 50 days.
