Program Overview and Objectives

Today and in coming years, North Carolina faces great challenges in meeting the mental health and substance use prevention, treatment, and recovery needs of older adults and aging baby boomers. The recommendations from the North Carolina Institute of Medicine's Task Force on Mental Health and Substance Use on addressing older adult mental health and substance use will set the stage for discussions on how to mobilize communities across North Carolina to improve older adult mental health and substance use services, policies, and practices. This conference offers participants opportunities to meet others in their communities and across the state who are engaged in improving the mental health and substance use services and supports for older adults, learn from nationally-renowned experts, and develop community action plans to address the mental health and substance use needs of older adults.

Upon completion of the program, participants should be able to:

- Highlight key strategies to effect change in older adult mental health and substance use services, policies, and practices.
- Identify evidence-based strategies to address the mental health and substance use treatment needs of older adults.
- Serve as a catalyst for action to address the mental health and substance use prevention, treatment, and recovery

TOPICS TO BE DISCUSSED:

- Mobilizing communities around older adult mental health and substance use
- Mental health and substance use services for Medicare beneficiaries
- Integrated care for older adults
- Recovery oriented systems of care

WHO SHOULD ATTEND:

- Mental health and substance use providers
- Aging services providers
- Health educators
- Health care providers
- Others with an interest in mental health, substance use and aging
